

- A Arsenal: they'll have a public mural that folks can paint on
- B Bon Odori: instructors from San Jose Buddhist Church will teach simple festival dances like the ones we do at San Jose Obon. Learn a few steps and ask what the movements mean. Nearby make your own LED Uchiwa (fan) that you can use during the dance.
- C Get a photo taken with the barbers of Paradox. Ask them about other barbershops in JTown back in the day.
- D Learn some basic swing dance steps on Swing Street. Try them out at Swingposium at 6:30!
- H Learn to play Hanafuda. Be sure to ask how they learned and any memories they have of the game growing up.
- I Check out the museum: here is a tag that is a replica of the ones given to the interned. They were given a number and told to place it on themselves and their few belongings.
- K Kogura Gift store has a working 1940's radio and other amazing memorabilia. It also has a secret mail slot - if you put a quarter in it you'll get a vintage surprise. Be sure to ask them about it!
- M Try your hand at mochi pounding! The common new year's ceremony where they pound mochi rice is called mochitsuki. Once you're done be sure to check out Shuei-do manju shop for delicious mochi confections.
- N Nichi Bei Bussan is a store on Jackson and 4th but they're hosting a photo booth at the Get Down Studios in Japantown Square (5th & Jackson). Try on some of their traditional Japanese clothing and use your phone to take a selfie!
- O Meet Eva Okida-Kogura Sato at the LED wall at Cinema Corridor. Her great grandfather Fukuichi Okida was an early pioneer of Japan town San Jose in 1911. She will be a greeter with a desk, chairs and memorabilia from the hall, 1918. Ask her to stamp your program and talk about childhood memories of Okida Hall. This stamp was used back in the day for programs that were hosted for the community. The movies being played were ones shown at Okida Hall.
- R Roy's Station used to be a gas station back in the day. They'll have memorabilia from old Japantown establishments. Be sure to ask them about it and take a photo with Roy's Station gas tenants. Maybe another with photo of the classic cars parked out in the street.
- P What is the importance of protest? San Jose Japanese American Citizens League (SJ JACL) explores this question through sign making. Make your own sign and ask about the power of protest.
- Z Zonkey's Toys used to be Cook & Sons Appliance back in the day. Check out their retro TV screens and get a photo. Ask Auntie Carole at Roy's Station how she would spend time outside Cook & Sons.
